

The Athenaeum Hotel at Chautauqua Institution
Welcomes
The Brookings Institution

Nestled on the shores of Chautauqua Lake in southwestern New York State, this picturesque community known as Chautauqua Institution evokes the friendliness and charm of a bygone era. Chautauqua offers an astonishing array of summertime programs that make this National Historic Landmark a world-renowned center for lifelong educational, recreational, artistic and religious pursuits.

The historic Athenaeum Hotel at Chautauqua welcomes The Brookings Institution and will offer Special Group Rates for selected rooms during our nine-week summer season.

We especially invite The Brookings Institution to visit during Week One, which will feature presenters each day on the topic:
“Russia: A Post-Soviet Identity”
June 25 - 30, 2006

Against the background of the first G-8 summit to gather in Russia, this week will explore Russia’s view of its place in world affairs. Through a partnership between the Brookings Institution and Chautauqua, leading experts will consider a full range of issues on the G-8 agenda and how Russia’s evolving self-identity will shape its approach to those issues. Lectures will explore Russia’s progress on democracy and a civil society, energy policy and the economy, healthcare and the scourge of AIDS, the global threat of terrorism, relationships to China and India, religious pluralism and the Muslim world. This week, which marks the 20th anniversary of the Chautauqua conference in Jurmala, Latvia, aims to illuminate the Russia of today.

Featured speakers include:

- Lilia Shevtsova, senior associate, Carnegie Moscow Center (June 26)
- Vyacheslav Karpov, professor of Russian sociology, Western Michigan Univ. (June 26)
- Clifford G. Gaddy, senior fellow, Brookings Institution, Russian economic expert (June 27)
 - Dmitri Trenin, senior associate, Carnegie Moscow Center (June 28)
 - Bruce Blair, president World Security Institute (June 29)
- Dr. Ekaterina, director general, Library for Foreign Literature, Moscow (June 30)

Special Weekly Group Rates for The Brookings Institution:
Double occupancy: $1609 per person per week (all-inclusive*)
Single occupancy: $1890 per week (all-inclusive*)

- Daily, all-inclusive rates also available

*All quoted rates include accommodations, meals, service charge, state and county taxes and weekly gate fees. (Surcharge for Opera and Theater) Rates are applicable for selected rooms and upon availability. Service charge covers all gratuities for wait staff, bellmen and chambermaids.

Call 1-800-821-1881 for Hotel reservations

- Limited availability – Book early
- Dining room dress code: business casual
- Brookings Institution Group Rate Discount ID: BRI
- Parking fees are $6 per day.

Visit www.ciweb.org for more information and complete schedule

