

Marina Augoustidis

Marina Augoustidis is a program associate for leadership programs at the Brookings Center for Executive Education. In this position she is responsible for working with senior staff on developing, administering, and implementing many of the Center's leadership programs.

Prior to joining the Brookings Institution, Ms. Augoustidis worked for the Academy for Educational Development as a program associate for the Center for International Exchanges. In this position she worked on the U.S. Department of State International Visitor Leadership Program. During her years prior to attending graduate school, Ms. Augoustidis interned with World Vision and the Pittsburgh Council for International Visitors.

She completed her Master's Degree in International Development at the University of Pittsburgh with a focus on NGOs and Civil Society. Prior to her graduate studies, she received her Bachelor's Degree in History, also at the University of Pittsburgh. She has a strong interest in international affairs and development. In addition she has traveled extensively throughout Southeastern Europe.

Ms. Augoustidis is originally from North Huntingdon, Pennsylvania and currently lives in Silver Spring, Maryland.