

Missing Data Notes

The U.S. Census Bureau's American Community Survey, upon which much of the data on this website are based, does not report data for geographies with fewer than 65,000 total population. These include five primary cities in the top 100 metros: Bradenton, FL; Greenville, SC; Harrisburg, PA; Portland, ME; and Poughkeepsie, NY. In addition, data for other geographies are suppressed for sub-populations, such as racial and ethnic groups, that fail to meet certain size thresholds. These are designated by a "—" in the tables below the maps on this site. In some metropolitan areas with multiple "primary cities," some but not all of those cities may be missing data for particular indicators. In these cases, we report data for the primary city(ies) for which data are available, and the remainder is assigned to the metro area's suburbs. These exceptions are detailed below.
