Luncheon Plenary: Reinventing Detroit—Broad Vision and Partnerships to Transform the Motor City

his panel will kick off a series of afternoon discussions about bottom-up innovations to transform auto communities and the partnerships necessary. To start, this panel will feature the vision, strategy, and partnerships emerging from the traditional center of the auto industry - Detroit. Leaders will discuss a holistic approach to reinventing a major auto city, from helping auto manufacturers and suppliers transition to new products to physically transforming a central city that has lost over half of its population during the last 50 years. Driving the vision are powerful partnerships with philanthropic and other community leaders. The panel will focus on lessons and observations that have broad applications for all auto communities.
