

PROFESSIONAL POSITIONS

2001-present Senior Fellow and Research Director. Metropolitan Policy Program, Brookings Institution.

- Research Director. From September 2006, oversee the development and implementation of Metro Program's research agenda. Review program-conducted and sponsored research to ensure high research quality. Coordinate research functions, manage internal research communications, and represent program's research staff for Brookings-wide priorities and with external partners. Oversee development of online analytical tools to enhance research data transparency and accessibility. Serve as chief research liaison to budget, communications, development, finance, and human resources departments. Author and contribute to research grant proposals.
- Metropolitan Economies. Authored MetroNation report that set research foundation for program's multi-year Blueprint for American Prosperity initiative. Designed and authored first several editions of program's quarterly MetroMonitor publication tracking economic recession and recovery in U.S. metro areas. Co-author annual Global MetroMonitor publication tracking economic performance of 200 largest international metropolitan areas. Coordinate research for Global Cities Initiative, a Joint Project of Brookings and JP Morgan Chase, focused on trade and investment flows among global metropolitan economies.
- The Demography of Cities and Suburbs. Direct program's demographic research stemming from decennial census, American Community Survey, and related sources. Author and edit reports on various topics related to population change, race and ethnicity, households and families, poverty and income, and implications for the future of urban areas. Manage project to produce biennial Brookings "State of Metropolitan America" report and website; present findings to wide array of audiences.
- Metropolitan Opportunity. Direct program's research on changing geography of poverty in metropolitan areas and local impacts of federal programs for working poor families in cities and suburbs. Authored several publications, speeches, and Congressional testimony on concentration of poverty and suburbanization of the poor; and on the Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC). Commissioned and edited wide series of publications on issues including TANF reauthorization, affordable housing, wage advancement for low-skill workers, history of tax credits for low-income families, and proposals to reform advance payment of the EITC.

Previous Brookings Positions: Senior Research Analyst (2001-2005); Fellow (2005-2008)

Sep-Nov 2004 Atlantic Fellow in Public Policy. Her Majesty's Treasury, London, UK.

- Mixed Communities and Housing Policy in England. Conducted research for UK Treasury on trends in economic segregation, neighborhood poverty, and housing policy's capacity to create mixed-income communities. Briefed Chancellor Gordon Brown and Council of Economic Advisers. Research and policy recommendations precipitated Treasury's December 2004 announcement of pilot project to replace highly distressed housing estates with redesigned mixed-income communities, taking lessons from HOPE VI experience in U.S. Conducted supporting research on poor neighborhoods at London

School of Economics' Centre for the Analysis of Social Exclusion.

1999-2001 Policy Advisor. Office of Community Development Policy, U.S. Treasury Department.

- Community Reinvestment Act, Predatory and Fair Lending Laws. Served as principal author of joint Treasury-HUD report on abusive home mortgage lending practices, and federal policy responses; managed Treasury report on impacts of Community Reinvestment Act on mortgage lending to underserved groups and neighborhoods. Authored related speeches and congressional testimony for Secretary and Undersecretary. Researched and drafted Administration policy on “payday” lending. Authored Treasury comments to Federal Reserve Board of Governors on proposed revisions to fair lending and home mortgage disclosure regulations.
- Retail Financial Services and Savings for Lower-Income Americans. Developed $30 million First Accounts proposal in FY 2001 budget for grants to financial institutions for providing basic banking services to individuals without bank accounts. Authored speeches and congressional testimony on budget proposal, created implementation plan for $10 million program appropriation, and solicited grant proposals from banks and community groups. Coordinated office policy on Administration and congressional proposals for tax credits to subsidize savings for lower-income families.

1997-1999 Research Assistant. Center on Budget and Policy Priorities.

- Researched and co-authored reports on proposals to address “marriage penalties” in the federal tax code, adequacy of state “rainy day” funds in recession, and effects of state income taxes on low-income families.

1994-1997 Consultant. Andersen Consulting.

- Designed and supervised development of new public housing authority information system for U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development. Developed new corporate audit information system for California revenue department. Provided expert testimony to federal contract oversight board.
