

Contents

Acknowledgments	ix
Prologue	xiii
1 Introduction to Indio Guayas and the Study	1
2 Grappling with Poverty: From Asset Vulnerability to Asset Accumulation	17
3 A Home of One's Own: Squatter Housing as a Physical Asset	42
4 Social Capital, Gender, and the Politics of Physical Infrastructure	63
5 Leadership, Empowerment, and "Community Participation" in Negotiating for Social Services	89
6 Earning a Living or Getting By: Labor as an Asset	114
7 Families and Household Social Capital: Reducing Vulnerability and Accumulating Assets	137
8 The Impact of Intrahousehold Dynamics on Asset Vulnerability and Accumulation	157
9 Daughters and Sons: Intergenerational Asset Accumulation	182
10 Migration to Barcelona and Transnational Asset Accumulation	206
11 Youth Crime, Gangs, and Violent Death: Community Responses to Insecurity	231

viii Contents

12	Research and Policy Lessons from Indio Guayas	249
Appendixes
A	Research Methodology: Guayaquil Fieldwork	265
B	Guayaquil's Political and Economic Context	274
C	Econometric Methodology	288
	Notes	311
	References	332
	Index	351