

Future integrated delivery networks will be focused around care models that operate at the intersection of the population segments and health conditions.

