

Attendees Chumir-Brookings Project Workshop
August 1, 2016
12:00 pm – 5:30 pm
The Brookings Institution
St. Louis Room

1) Joel Bell

Founding Chairman and President, Chumir Foundation for Ethics in Leadership

Joel Bell has been involved in business in Canada, the United States and Europe. Most recently involved in the European mining sector, he earlier founded and served as President and CEO of the Maxlink Group of Companies; was Executive Chairman of Power DirecTV; served as President of a real estate development in Paris; and worked as a business development and financial advisor and executive in natural resources, financial intermediation services, manufacturing and broadcasting. Mr. Bell was also the founding President and Chief Executive Officer of Canada Development Investment Corporation (CDIC).

2) Kemal Derviş,

Vice President and Director, Global Economy and Development, Brookings

Kemal Derviş was Executive Head of the UNDP, a member of the Turkish Parliament, and Minister for Economic Affairs and the Treasury of the Republic of Turkey, responsible for Turkey's recovery programme after the devastating financial crisis that hit the country in February 2001. He is a member of the Executive Committee of the Istanbul Policy Center at Sabanci University and of various Advisory Boards. Mr. Derviş focuses on global economics, emerging markets, development and international institutions.

3) Homi Kharas

Senior Fellow and Deputy Director, Global Economy and Development, Brookings

Formerly a Chief Economist in the East Asia and Pacific Region of the World Bank, Homi Kharas has served as the lead author and executive secretary of the secretariat supporting the High Level Panel, co-chaired by President Sirleaf, President Yudhoyono and Prime Minister Cameron, advising the U.N. Secretary General on the post-2015 development agenda. He currently studies policies and trends influencing developing countries, including aid to poor countries, the emergence of a middle class, the food crisis and global governance and the G20.

4) Zia Qureshi

Nonresident Senior Fellow, Global Economy and Development, Brookings
Former Director, Development Economics, World Bank

Zia Qureshi has held leadership positions at the Bank, with a wide range of responsibilities. His last position was Director of Strategy and Operations in the Office of the Senior Vice President and Chief Economist, where he oversaw a large program of research and policy work on the global economy and assessment of the Bank's country programs and operational policies. His research and commentary cover global economic issues and emerging market economies.

5) Martin Baily

Senior Fellow, Economic Studies, Brookings

Martin Baily is the Bernard L. Schwartz Chair in Economic Policy Development and Senior Fellow and Director of the Business and Public Policy Initiative. He is studying financial regulation, growth, and how to speed the recovery. He is a Senior Advisor to the McKinsey Global Institute and to the Albright Stonebridge Group. He is the co-chair of the Financial Regulatory Reform Initiative of the Bipartisan Policy Center, and a member of the Squam Lake Group of financial economists.

6) Carol Graham

Senior Fellow, Global Economy and Development, Brookings

Carol Graham is the Leo Pasvolsky Senior Fellow at the Brookings Institution and a College Park Professor at the School of Public Policy at the University of Maryland. She is also a Research Fellow at the Institute for the Study of Labor (IZA) and focuses her research on developing economies, inequality, Latin America, market reforms, poverty, and subjective well-being.

7) Dany Bahar

Fellow, Global Economy and Development, Brookings
Associate, Harvard Center for International Development

Dany Bahar's research interests include the role of international knowledge transmission and diffusion on innovation, as well as sectoral productivity dynamics. Before joining Brookings he was a research economist at the Inter-American Development Bank. He has consulted for a number of multilateral organizations.

8) Karim Foda

Senior Research Associate, Global Economy and Development, Brookings

Karim Foda's research areas include drivers of growth in advanced and emerging market economies, the structural transformation of the global economy, and monetary and fiscal policies.

9) Eileen McGivney

Research Associate, Center for Universal Education

Global Economy and Development, Brookings

Eileen McGivney's work examines a variety of topics relevant to global education policy including the skills young people will need to be successful in a rapidly changing world, innovations and new education technologies that hold promise to better promote skills development, and how to scale up effective approaches.

10) Nirav Patel

Research Assistant, Global Economy and Development, Brookings

Nirav Patel assists Brookings scholars in various research areas including income inequality, technology innovation, urban transport, and planning and urban development.

11) Joanna Chataway

Research Group Director of Innovation, Health and Science

RAND Europe

Joanna (Jo) Chataway has more than 20 years of research and consultancy experience in the areas of innovation and social and economic development—particularly in the analysis and evaluation of investment in research and innovation and what sorts of policy, finance, and institutions are needed to facilitate translation of research into useful innovation. Her research has spanned public and private sectors and she has worked in industrially developed and developing countries.

12) Diego Comin

Professor of Economics, Dartmouth

Research Fellow, Center for Economic Policy Research and Faculty Research
National Bureau of Economic Research's Economic Fluctuations and Growth
Program

Diego Comin has published multiple articles in top economic journals on the topics of business cycles, technology diffusion and economic growth. He has authored cases studies published in the book Drivers of Competitiveness. Comin has advised the Prime Minister of Malaysia on its development strategies and has consulted for the ECB, World Bank, IMF, Federal Reserve Bank of New York, Citibank, Danish Science Ministry, and the Economic and Social Research Institute (ESRI) of the government of Japan.

13) Carol Corrado

Senior Advisor and Research Director, Economics Program, The Conference Board

Carol Corrado's primary focus is measuring intangible capital and analyzing innovation and economic growth. She has coauthored key papers on the macroeconomic analysis of intangible investment and capital, including one that won the International Association of Research on Income and Wealth's 2010 Kendrick Prize ("Intangible Capital and U.S. Economic Growth") and one that appears in Measuring Capital in the New Economy (University of Chicago Press, 2005), a volume she coedited. Her research on intangibles and innovation has been cited in the popular press, including Business Week, Financial Times, and New York Times. In recent work, she collaborated to develop the INTANInvest database, an internationally comparable dataset of intangible investment and capital for 27 EU countries, Norway, and the United States.

14) Susan Cozzens

Professor and Georgia Tech Vice Provost for Graduate Education and Faculty Affairs

Cozzens' research interests are in science, technology, and innovation policies in developing countries, including issues of equity, equality, and development. She is active internationally in developing methods for research assessment and science and technology indicators. Her current projects are on water and energy technologies, nanotechnology, social entrepreneurship, pro-poor technology programs, and international research collaboration.