

Kurt Forsgren
Managing Director
U.S. Public Finance

Kurt Forsgren is a managing director and Sector Leader for Infrastructure in U.S. Public Finance, based in Boston. In this role, he works as an industry analyst across the different infrastructure sectors with a focus on supporting the transportation and utilities team and partnering with S&P Global's Infrastructure and Project Finance team on cross-practice initiatives such as public-private partnerships (P3s), climate risks and Green Evaluations globally.

Kurt currently participates in rating activities, chairs credit committees, assists with criteria development, implements S&P Global Ratings investor and market education initiatives; and authors thought leadership commentary. Most recently, Kurt was Head of S&P Global Ratings' Boston office where he was responsible for business development and operating strategy in the region, market outreach and investor relations. Beginning in S&P Global's San Francisco office in 1992, Kurt's experience spans Public Finance and Project Finance, encompassing public utilities, higher education, and a variety of special tax-backed areas, non-recourse financings including the transportation sub-sectors (e.g. airports, toll facilities, mass transit and surface transport, maritime ports). Prior to joining the company, Kurt was a transportation consultant at KPMG/Leigh Fisher Associates.

A Board Member of the National Federation of Municipal Analysts, former head of the Boston Municipal Analyst Forum, Boston Security Analysts Society and Boston Economic Club, Kurt earned a bachelor's degree in economics and political science from the University of Maine and a Master of Government Administration degree from the Fels Institute of Government at the University of Pennsylvania.
